

Graphic Objects and Performed Stories: Collaborations between Researchers and Designers to Tell Science Differently

Juliette Nier

(Freelance designer)

Through live manipulation of objects and images, graphic designer Juliette Nier develops collaborations with researchers to present science to the general public in new ways. She will discuss several of these projects, highlighting the working methods, tools, and challenges involved in this type of collaboration.